OSI, KGB and 'war criminals'

CHICAGO—On Feb. 17 you printed an article concerning the book "Quiet Neighbors," by Allan Ryan, and about the action of the Office of Special Investigations regarding the crimes during the Nazi occupation of Eastern Europe.

The people who really committed these crimes must answer before the institutions of justice. However, it is inadmissible for the OSI to collaborate with the KGB, which is committing the same crimes as the Nazis did. The State Department repeatedly has informed us that the agencies of the Soviet Union falsify documents. The KGB and the Soviet Union in general are responsible for as many, if not more, victims of the holocaust of various nations as the Nazis. The collaboration of the OSI and the KGB is inadmissible and unreliable.

On the other hand, sending U.S. citizens who became stateless to the Soviet Union would be another holocaust, because they would perish there in slave labor camps.

One more question can be raised: Why does the Office of Special Investigations not pursue action against the communist criminals in the same lands as it does against the Nazi criminals?

CHICAGO—In regard to the Tempo article "Our 'good neighbors,'" it is easy for Allan Ryan to accept "help" from the KGB in pursuing ex-Nazis—neither he nor his family has suffered at the hands of this infamous organization. Despite the fact that knowledgeable sources about the Soviet Union and Soviet dissidents and ex-KGB agents in the West openly state that the KGB is using forged documents and its notorious disinformation tactics, the Office of Special Investigations continues to accept the KGB's "help." It is only to be hoped that in 40 years someone will pursue the KGB murderers of today with zeal such as that which Mr. Ryan possesses.
